Know it must be good to eat,
Good to wear or somethin fine,
Else Sis wouldn't be so tickled,
A-lsughin' now an' then a-cryin'.
An' she's went an' fixed the parlor—
Got some flowers fresh an' green—
Hung up a lot o' extry pictures,
Till everything looks nice an' clean!

Jim-o' course I call him Mister,
Wen he's in the parlor there'Fore he went to be a soldler,
Him an' Sis sat chair to chair.
An' I'll ast to let me see it—
If it's wild or if it's tame'Cause I never saw no furlough,
An' don't know nothin' by that name!

Sim's comin' back from Cuby,
Sia, she told me that to-day,
Fer he's got a furlough, but
That's 'bout all she had to say.
Oh, she's craxy jes to see him,
While I'm crasy most to soe
That there Cublan furloush—
An' mebbe he'll give it to me! J. W.

October, the month of opals and deserting leaves, will hereafter go into June for matrimonial honors, judging by the "hitching up" eyident here-abouts. Wednesday was a banner day in this respect, and its list of nuptial in this respect, and its list of nuptial knots should be a winning argument for Republican stumpers wanting examples of prosperty and the return of confidence. Some expert has said that the summer moon is conductive to love, but the popping is done around an autumn fireside, which breeds in the breast of man a longing for domestic comforts.

breast of man a longing for domestic comforts.

Shakespeare figured out seven stages, but the less mathematically inclined agree that the three important epochs in a man's career are his birth, his marriage and his demise. Such little things as his troubles with his shoe strings preparatory to school or his promiscous courtship in his later days are mere side issues. The cradle, the altar and the grave are the whole places of cloth, but as he doesn't remember his birth nor has had any previous sensation of death, the average man of to-day centres his attention on the biggest date in his calendar—the day of the wedding ordeal—the scent of the orange blossoms, crush at the church, the hum and stare of the curious congregation, the ring, the parson—the relief when it was all over with—and the drive off under the shower of rice. It is something a man doesn't forget, And the girl, does she? Well, who in the world sald she did!

Weddings are pretty much alike.

Weddings are pretty much alike There is the same regulation service with different actors in the cast. The preacher either speaksthe words to two with different actors in the cast. Inc preacher either speaks the words to two victims in his parlor, or to a small army of ushers and bridesmaids in a fashionable church. Passing from the gay to the grave, funerals are similar; depends on who are the victims, and the trappings will be few or great. To only one individual are all alike. One star on the bleak horizon is no respector of persons. With a non-distinctive eye he gathers them in to his generous bosom. Whether Mr. Reginald Marmalade Decoin weds Miss Maemie Blank Concurrency, or John Smith marriés Mary Susan Brown, posterity will give each equal honor, and remember the "popular groom" and the "beautiful and accompilahed bride." If no other, the "contracting parties" have one friend on earth—the society editor.

The society scribe of the generous heart, the knight of the cordial quill, long may he wave o'er the home of the fair and the land of the brave!

"Potted plants and rare exotics tastefully embellished each nook, and hours were delightfully whiled away in teteates."

And again: "Tempting refreshments

And again: "Tempting refreshments were served at a seasonable hour."
"The inner man was done full justice

For him let there be 365 Thanksgiving days on the calendar:

While the papers have it the "biushing bride," the fact remains that the groom is some shucks in the blushing line, and if a tab was kept on weddings the stronger sex would take the premium for sudden florid complexions. A man who braved the enemy's camon has been afflicted with the ague before the wedding aftar. His responses to the "Do you take this woman for your fawful wedded wife." are as often indistinct as they are clear. Some firen have argued against a church ceremony, and have only been dissuaded, from their views by the coaxings of their wivesto-be, and their cousins and their aunts. It is to sudisfy her and Herrelatives and the swarm of friends that his opposition to the church parade genses, and the occasion goes on recoult for one time in his existence, at least as the time he was "in the hands of his friends." Many stories are related of the awkwardness and bashfulness of the man in the case, all being stranger than fiction, and consequently true. Who does not feel for the timorous youth who in reply to the preacher's query of "Will you take this woman," ste, buried out, "Were you speaking to me, sir," or, again, there was the absent-minded morisk, who, in responding to the same question, said: "I don't care if I do." While the papers have it the "blush-

The thrill of interest that pulsates a community at the wedding of two shining marks in society is difficult to explain. The couple were known by the speciators from childhood, perhaps, yet the church will be thronged; and since the throng is partly the result of complimentary invitations that for time is plimentary inviations and the seasily explained, but the rights of of the people in their pewe, the craning of necks, the "ohs" and the "ahs," the whispered comments and atmosphere of suppressed excitement—wherefore these? A black suit of clothes, white expanse of irt front, a breathing frame—that's e groom. The bride, she's fair to look chirt front, a breathing traine that the groom. The bride, she's fair to look upon, certainly, and her gown of indescribable in the second of tacle akin to the union forever, and tending to make the hale old gentleman in the rear pew yell "hoo-ray!"

Yes, whether weddings are all the same, only different, or not, the attrac-tion never wanes. From the school girl to her silver-haired grandmother, it's a il, "It was good to have been "And didn't she look sweet;" nade a pretty couple;" "She did there," "And didn't she look sweet,"

"They made a pretty couple," "She did

and others too numerous to mention.
But why there will always be a grand rush to see a wedding is a problem that can't be solved in Hs entirety. If le just

MUSICAL WHEELING.

In club circles there is nothing of special interest to chronicle, except the Arion open evening of song, under direction of Professor Hermann Schockey. rection of Professor Hermann Schockey.
This occurs on Thursday. All other societies have a quiet week of rehearsing ahead, after which the Woman's Club formally opens its fourth season on November 5, to associate members with an American Composers' Day.

Musical Wheeling has recently been very much honored abroad by the public appearance of Alfred Spell, son of Prof. E. W. Spell, as 2010 violinist with the Sunderhausen Court Orchestra. The the Sunderhausen Court Orchestra. The papers spoke triumphastly of the young violinist's performance. Mr. Spell has been playing for some time with the orchestra as first violin while studying at the conservatory, and when he made his initial entrance into the solo ranks and he rendered Beethoven and Schwenden selections, to the congratulatory approval of eminent critics. This is a cause for sincere gratification and congratulation to his family and the musical community in which he was prominently recognized before taking up his studies in Germany three years ago.

Wonderful French Invention WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.-In their efforts to meet German competition, the fabric manufacturers of Roubaix, France, have developed the new weav-France, have developed the new weaving machine, which in speed surpasses the new Northrop machine of American invention, and permits the use of ordinary material. The fabric produced is turned out at the assonishingly fast rate of from 120 to 175 yards per day of ten hours; there is great economy, one workman overseeing six machines, and the motive force is one-half of the ordinary requirements. The fabric shows a woven effect on one side and knitted on the other, and it is believed the machine will be powerful factor in competing for the plain goods market, if not for high novelies.

FINANCE AND TRADE The Fentures of the Money and Start

Markets. NEW YORK, Oct. 22.-The stock market again showed itself independent of the depressing influence of London and Europe, except at the opening, when a few of the International stocks were allowed to fall below the London parity. The selling of stocks on foreign account made up a considerable portion of the day's business, and was well absorbed at advancing prices. The buoyancy of the wheat market made the grain-carrying roads prominent in the movement, the buying of Atchison securities, particularly the preferred, again occupying a conspicuous place. But the stocks of all the western roads were well bought, and advanced in price. Surgar ended its downdard course very early, and closed near the top with a net gain of 1½ per cent, the underlying strength manifest in the market making the bears timid about leaving short contracts uncovered over Sunday. Tobacco also was marked up to 1 22%, with every evidence of viol-in manipulation, and shorts were driven to cover heavily at every stage of the advance. Even the coalers showed the effects of the uncertainty developed by the bears, and made recoveries on short offerings. The bank statement was just about as expected, and had little effect one way or the other. The gain in cash had been in imported gold and by outgo from the sub-treasury, and the heavy increase in loans of over $10,000,000 represents for the most part loans on sterlings, which is an element in the lending of money shroad.

The increase in deposits from this source expanded the reserve requirements so far that the increased cash only served to raise the surplus by $3,760,775. Business in both stocks and the market showed a decided tendency to broaden out. and the market showed a decided tendency to broaden out. The amount of business done was larger than for any half day for some time.

The market has shown a growing strength and activity as the week advanced, and has fairly shaken off the lethargy which even the long array of favorable factors in the situation seemed powerless to awaken it from. Evenes openomenal a showing as St. Paul's earnings for the second week in October, the largest in the road's history, and nearly $140,000 over those of lastyear, served only to encourage a feeble resistance in the manipulation for a decline of the board room traders in stocks. It is a maxim of professional traders that a dull and sagging market for stocks is bound to produce a general reaction. The uncertainty of the European political situation was cited as additional argument for a season's duliness and declines. But curiously enough the more threatening developments of European politics have, indirectly, at least, given the stimulus to the stock market which enabled it to shake off its torpidity. The week's events in financial circles have, in fact, given a striking demonstration of the strength of the country's financial position and its power to treat with indifference old world developments. There has been nothing in the domestic situation which has caused more doubt to financiers than the low price in prospect for wheat when the crop, temporarily held back, should come forward. But this week has seen the crop coming forward in unprecedented volume. Yet so keen has been the foreign demand for our product that the largely augmental primary movement had made but little impression on the visible supply.

The money stringency and the was care shroad have thrown not far from 100,000 shares of stock on the New York exchange for liquidation during the week. But these have been absorbed at advancing prices and with money rates declining. Foreign markets are known to be pretty well stripped of the usual floating supply of American securities but the event of actual war in CHICAGO—A rather sensational advance at Liverpool to-day, in face of the weakness here yesterdayand an excellent demand for cash grain from Europe, advanced wheat sharply. December closed 16114c higher. Corn gained 1614c. Onts rose 14c. Pork lost 5c. Lard 1615 25c, and rbs 5c.

An advance of 18672d in the price of wheat at Liverpool and no noteworthy decline in consols made a decidedly strong and higher market for wheat here at the opening. Sales for December were 16714c higher at 675,6768c, and there was a further gain of 14c shortly afterward. Accompanying the early news from abroad was a New York report of large additional sales for export and further purchases of December futures by the exporters. There were reports of flour sales to Italy, the first on record and also that houses with Australian connections were making inquiries for flour.

on record and also that houses with Australian connections were making inquiries for fiour.

St. Louis, meanwhile, advised that the bids from abroad on wheat were 30 per bushel higher than at the close has night and Minneapolls reported the wheat stock on hand was sufficient for only a limited period of grinding. Northwest receipts were $22 cars, which was considerably lighter than last week as the result of the recent roust weather. Chicago received 198 carloads against 139 last gear. The primary receipts all told showed a liberal quantity of wheat received, being 1,525,000 bushels, as compared with 1,081,000 bushels, a year ago. The experts for the day from the leading Atlantic ports were equal to 752,000 bushels wheat. Under these conditions shorts were forced to cover and the fluctuations of December, the greater portion of the day were from 674,0684c. There was a liberal volume of business done in the pit and 220,000 bushels No. 1 northern wheat was reported disposed of for export. Near the end, the war scare lost some of its influence when it was found that continental markets were all lower and British consols higher and the price of December reacted to 673,0675c, which was the closing figure.

speculative buying incited by the wheat arrength, and the foreign situation caused a strong feeling in corn. December opened %c higher at 228224c; weaker to 315c; then advanced sharply to 2246224c, caused by an attempt of the shorts to even up all trades for the week. There was considerable taking of profits by longs during the closing hour and the price was forced off to 32c at the close.

NEW YORK — The dry goods market has developed little of interest out of the print cloth market during the week. The demand in general lines has been much restricted, buyers being present in the city in small numbers, and mail orders being of only fair size and frequency. The cotton goods market shows a stronger front in feeling than was the case a week ago, due undoubtedly to the gain in print cloths during the week. The demand for export goods has shown a gradual improvement during the week. The signing of the print cloth agreement has not resulted in any freer sales as yet, there is more interest manifested in the market buyers, but they find out how the new trustee gystem of selling is to be operated.
